Clapp Fired From School Post; HNC Scandal Enters New Phase

Sitting as judge and jury in capacity as hearing officer, required by State law, and as complainant, County Superintendent Eugene Clapp fired Robert Clapp on Monday from his post as principal at Hancock North Central School. The action climaxed a public hearing in the Hancock County Courthouse before a courtroom well filled with teachers, parents, and interested persons.

Basis for Clapp's dismissal was for "gross insubordination and physical attack" upon Ladner who, according to testimony, pushed Clapp for the second time before Clapp struck him in the mouth on June 2 after a lack-of-a-quorum recess of the school board, and after "I (Ladner) had went out over to the courthouse..." and returned to the county school board office.

Ladner introduced testimony purportedly substantiating his charges of lack of cooperation and insubordination on the part of Clapp since Ladner took office as County Superintendent in January, 1968, after the general election of 1967. Clapp was hired on July 1, 1967, under a 3-year contract with the Hancock School District prior to Ladner's election. Ladner indicated that the two had been at odds ever since, and that Clapp "never said he would not cooperate, but he always did not cooperate..." in addition to the teacher personnel issue in which the two have been embroiled since early spring of this year, Ladner cited Clapp's opposition to the new superintendent's appointment of maintenance personnel at Hancock North Central "after I taken office in January, 1968"; disagreement over payment of a utility bill at a county-owned teacher residence at Hancock

North Central; payment of a school secretary during the summer of 1968 for a month's work when she was at her desk only 7 days; and Clapp's frequent attendance at school board meetings.

Clapp replied to the latter charge by stating that he was present at board meetings by "invitation of board members", and that he was unaware of the dissatisfaction that his presence had been causing Ladner and Board Members Luga No-casse, Lamar Lee, and President Ed Orte.

Maintaining his position that politics are exerting adverse influence upon the county school system, Clapp's testimony brought out the replacement of a capable and satisfactory maintenance man at Hancock North Central was among the first orders of business when Ladner took office. Ladner sought to employ James Cuvas who "is not no relation to me", but who was later revealed to be Ladner's wife's brother-in-law, and shortly thereafter, Glenn Ladner, the superintendent's second cousin, was hired as a mechanic replacement. (Inference has been made on other occasions that similar political influence is being exerted in the refusal of Ladner to accept Clapp's recommendation of one of the three teachers about which the two have been in conflict, and in Ladner's refusing to dismiss two teachers which Clapp did not recommend for the coming school year.)

Referring to the alleged assault incident on June 2, Clapp spoke of it as being an indication of "immaturity" on the part of both. "If I had that one second back, it would never happen again," said Clapp.

ARCHITECT DRAWING of this new high rise King County Administration Building to be built in Seattle, Washington, Rittiner Industrial Enameling, Inc. of Bay St. Louis is playing a major role in this complex with its approximately four

Rittiner Industrial Enameling, Inc. Plays Major Role In Seattle Complex

The first of twenty-five trailer loads of material was shipped to the King County Administration Building in Seattle, Washington. This building, designed by Armon, Pray & Detrich, Architects, Seattle, will be the most outstanding porcelain enamel facade in the great Northwest. Rittiner Industrial Enameling, Inc., of Bay St. Louis, assisted the architects in design of this material through its Vice President in charge of sales, Allan J. Sarrat.

The total amount of the contract, upwards of a million dollars, was negotiated last November by Robert P. Guilbault, Executive Vice President, against competition from Los Angeles, Oakland and Detroit. The installation, which will include approximately four acres of porcelain enamel, is unique in its integral design consisting of large hexagonal shaped panels and built-in window units. Part of the processing will be performed by an affiliated metal stamping company in Warren, Michigan and the majority of the fabrication and porcelain enameling will be done in Rittiner's Bay St. Louis plant. Complete engineering for this installation was performed at Rittiner Industrial's engineering office in New Orleans.

I-10 Now Over Half Way In Construction

Interstate Highway 10 progress in Mississippi reached a milestone June 24, when a huge contract was awarded heralding the fact that over half of the facility in Mississippi would soon be under construction.

With the advent of the Mississippi Highway Commission's I-10 letting it was noted by Southern District Highway Commissioner W. H. "Whip" Evans that the local districts were contracted obligation on the new modern highway now

Five grade, drain, bridge (and interchange) contracts now authorize projects starting at the Mississippi-Louisiana Line's Pearl River Bridge and reaching to the Biloxi River. Work is well underway on four of them. In addition, a paving contract for the new highway now

City To Borrow Funds For Municipal Schools

Woman Surprised By Night Intruder

A young Bay St. Louis mother bid her night working husband goodbye about 11 o'clock Sunday night, and then looked in on her children who were asleep in one of the bedrooms. Then she checked on her aunt, who was very ill in another room and found her asleep.

After that she retired to another bedroom after turning out all lights and went to sleep. She was awakened about a half hour later by an intruder, with whom she struggled and, who allegedly raped her. The intruder left, and the young lady called her husband, who in turn called Sheriff Fred Curot. In a very short time the sheriff and six deputies, aided by Bay St. Louis Police Chief Lathon Garriga with two city patrolmen and four Waveland police officers began a search of the area.

The lady was unable to give a very good account of the molester but described him as a bushy haired negro with a goatee. Officers believe the man had been watching the dwelling and moved in after cooling the husband's leave. Entrance was gained by removing a window screen.

Search of the area and other parts of Bay St. Louis which lasted until after daylight produced no results. However, before noon Monday after a conference between Sheriff Curot and Chief Garriga, the Chief picked up a suspect.

Identification of the suspect as the alleged rapist could not be made, and after questioning and testing by officers the suspect was released.

Supervisors Plans Rejected By Court

In district court at Biloxi Monday U.S. Judge Dan M. Russell Jr. rejected two plans for the redistricting of Hancock County. Judge Russell gave the two board 30 days to submit another proposal, which would be acceptable.

Following a hearing in chambers at Biloxi Monday, Judge Russell said the defendants have a month to submit a plan with no more than 25 percent deviation in the population of the five districts.

Plaintiffs in the suit will have 10 days after that within which to file objections.

The two proposals submitted were rejected as having too great deviations in the population of the districts.

One of the proposals had each of the five districts reaching to the waterfront of the county, where the heaviest concentration of population is located. Both plans called for election of county officials on an at-large basis.

At a special meeting Tuesday night the municipal school board met with city officials and members of the new city administration to discuss a and solve problems in regards to presently needed funds to run the school system.

J. D. McCullough, superintendent of schools explained why funds in the amount of $34,200.00 were needed. McCullough explained that the schools budget for last year was based upon expected tax revenues that the city of Bay St. Louis felt they would receive during the year.

It had been estimated by the city that $18,300,000 would be the total tax assessment - but the actual assessment was under this amount. Major John Scafide explained that the shortage of tax revenues was due to people moving out of the area and cutbacks at MTF.

McCullough stated that the school fiscal year ended this past Monday June 30th, and that funds were needed now to make teacher payrolls.

It was brought out in the discussion that many people have not paid their taxes but were using these monies to invest. These taxes are expected to come into the city revenues within the next few months. The school board voted in favor of petitioning the city officials, to obtain a local bank loan in the amount of $34,200.00 this week.

Under House Bill 74, that was enacted by the 1960 Mississippi Legislature, the school board can act in the above matter. The school board will have until March 15, 1970 to repay this money.

Inauguration Of Council July 7

Inauguration of the new city administration will take place during a brief public ceremony beginning at ten o'clock Monday morning, July 7, at the City Hall.

The local Legion Postmaster, Wm. M. Friolo, is the Chairman of the Christmas Tree program sponsored by the Department of Mississippi American Legion.

The Bay St. Louis Jaycees sponsored a Junior Tennis meet which was held at Bay High tennis courts on June 29th. The chairman of the meet was Whitney Carvin.

The winner of the Boys' division was Bob Boyd who scored the best 2 out of 3 games in a closely matched series over opponent Earl Meyers. The winner of the Girls' division was Debbie Weidman who won a closely matched series over opponent Mary Ann Smith. Trophies were awarded to the two winners.

The two winners will travel to Mississippi State College in Starkville, Mississippi where they will be in state competition July 6th, 7th and 8th, with other boys and girls from all parts of Mississippi.

Larry Breland, president of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees, said "by having this junior tennis meet he hopes this might encourage more boys and girls to participate in this sport."

history of the General Electric Co.'s Mississippi Test Support Department -- a hefty $2,060 -- has been earned by a member of the Department's materiel services organization.

Emmett J. Niolet of Allendale Road in Long Beach, Miss., a packaging technician, received the record payment for innovating protective packaging for valuable cryogenic fuel filter elements. He also won high praise from Karl F. Eklund, manager of the GE Mississippi Test Facility Operation.

Niolet devised the use of available boxes, and cardboard tubes salvaged from rolls of wrapping paper, to protect the filter elements during delivery to site users and storage. He uses foam cushioning in the boxes and tubes to support the filters, most of which are valued at more than $1,000 each.

The "jackpot" is Niolet's third suggestion award since he joined General Electric in February 1967. He earned previous awards of $260 and $20 for money-saving ideas. He plans to use his big award to help build a new home for his five-member family.

The largest previous suggestion award within GE-MTSD, for $1,500, was earned in 1967 by Mervin R. Tonkin of Bay St. Louis, Miss., a photographer.

Special Report From Washington

By Drew Pearson

By Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson
WASHINGTON - Richard Nixon's most remarkable achievement so far as President has been the extraordinary skill with which he has shaved off criticism of his non-fulfillment of campaign pledges.

There were many of them. He had a secret plan to end the war in Vietnam which he would reveal after he took office. He would crack down on crime in the streets. He would end the income tax surtax. He would halt inflation.

The fact is that, except for the absence of the public turmoil of last year, there has been very little change in anything since he took office that has been of his doing. The war in Vietnam is still costing hundreds of American lives each week; the shocking increase in crime is continuing; the surtax apparently will be extended as Lyndon Johnson had projected it; inflation is still growing unchecked, fueled by affluence-created demands the like of which this country has never before experienced.

Yet nobody is yet blaming Richard Nixon for anything, despite all his promises that he would solve our major problems. Rather, political opponents still seem willing to "give him time." And Lyndon Johnson, who did not run for reelection because the nation seemed so bitterly divided over some of his policies, must be wondering what has happened that the American public now is living with those same policies and unsolved problems with little apparent concern.

The fundamental truth, of course, is that no President, whether he be named Johnson or Nixon or Kennedy or even Franklin D. Roosevelt, can instantly come up with easy answers to such complex problems. So some forbearance in criticism of a new President is called for, while he studies those problems from the viewpoint of the White House and all the considerations the White House must take into account.

Yet Nixon, paradoxically, has not yet even demonstrated leadership. He has taken no bold steps as President; in fact, he has projected any. He has made virtually no suggestions to Congress, to the point that even Senate and House Republicans are confounded. The only crisis he has faced was the shooting down of the U.S. Navy airplane by North Korea, and, despite his criticism of Lyndon Johnson over the Pueblo seizure by the same "fourth-rate" power, he did nothing about it except to send a few Navy ships into the area for a few days.

On Vietnam, he also has done little to change the picture except to order withdrawal of a token number of U.S. troops and express the hope that he can bring many more home within the next year and a half. Although his advisers have insisted that this was no more than an expression of "hope," there can be no question that any indication of a reduction of U.S. forces in Vietnam means a stiffening of Communist bargaining demands in Paris. Why should they make concessions to get the U.S. out of Vietnam if we are going to pull out anyway?

Thus, despite the White House interpretations of what Mr. Nixon really meant, his "hope" may be haunting him from now on, not only in Paris but in this country. He ran on a platform of bringing peace to Vietnam; he said during the campaign he had a plan to end the war. And with Americans still dying in large numbers every day, the public and the Congress wonder on how long he will keep his promise.

Meanwhile, the crime wave continues to demand the attention of the nation. The FBI reported last week that the major crime in this country had increased 100 percent in the last three months.

The increase was 30 percent, chiefly in murders, rape, robberies and burglaries, right under the President's nose. As to inflation, Mr. Nixon also has done nothing except to seek extension of the income tax surtax--yet this is a problem which from many viewpoints is more critical than any we face because it threatens us and much of the rest of the world with economic chaos. Any major business recession in this country--and there are clear signs that one is possible--could become an avalanche of trouble incredible to all Americans too young to remember the suffering of the 1930s.

So time may be running out for the President's ability to stall. He soon will have been in office six months; the problems are continuing to grow, and answers must be found.

KID GLOVE TREATMENT
Several newspapermen have been eyeing the basic profusion of the Senate. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, with a view to checking his Peoria law firm and the number of clients it gets from New York and Los Angeles, presumably to influence Dirksen's powerful vote on the Senate floor.

However, there is one thing which has stopped investigative reporters so far: Dirksen is a champion of the Patting Newspaper Bill, designed to permit newspapers which are having a hard time financially to combine despite the Antitrust Act.

So investigative reporters have been told not to bit the Senate hand that feeds their publishers back home. Some of the facts about Dirksen's law business have been detailed in the book "The Case Against Congress," and at various times in this column. GANGBUSTERS COMING BACK
Although the President has done little about the crime in the streets which he made a campaign issue, his Justice Department under Attorney General Mitchell is about to move against the overlords of organized crime--the gang leaders who control dope traffic, prostitution, gambling, big time, bootlegging, and similar highly profitable rackets.

Mitchell is forming special task forces in key cities to carry out this campaign much like Elliot Ness did against Chicago hoodlums in the days of Prohibition. They'll use every available weapon against the gang bosses, from electronic gadgetry to infrared tax returns. The crackdown will be under the general supervision of Henry Peterson of the Justice Department's organized crime section, who has been itching to try to run the Mafia out of business. He wasn't allowed to do so under Democratic Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who strongly opposed the widespread use of wiretaps even against world figures. Further, Ramsey felt that the rapid increase in crime in the streets over the past several years was a problem of more immediate urgency to the Justice Department as well as to the public.

Attorney General Mitchell disagrees, believes that local governments bear the chief responsibility for fighting street crimes, and that the federal government should concentrate on organized crime beyond the reach of local authorities.

Michael Lee

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Everett Lee announce the birth of their second child and second daughter, Melissa Elizabeth, June 25, at Hancock General Hospital. She weighed seven pounds, 14 ounces. Mrs. Lee, the former Susan Bortages, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bortages of Lakehurst, Miss. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Doris Mitchell of Bay St. Louis and Mr. Lee of Bay St. Louis.

County Agents Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent, Hancock County.

As harvest time approaches, Mississippi farmers and shippers are reminded by plant pest control officials of the United States Department of Agriculture to be careful about using hay or straw in shipping animals and other products. They point out that it is illegal to use hay or straw packing for shipments moving from areas infested by the soybean cyst nematode or white-fringed beetle unless the packing has been treated of these pests.

Federal domestic plant quarantines restrict the movement of hay and straw from areas infested by any of these pests. The restrictions are necessary to help prevent soybean cyst nematodes and white-fringed beetles from hitchhiking into new areas by means of infested hay or straw. Plant pest control officials point out, although restrictions on the movement of hay and straw from areas infested by any of these pests are in effect throughout the year, the danger that pests will be inadvertently spread in infested shipments of crops is greatest at harvest time.

The soybean cyst nematode and white-fringed beetle are serious pests in areas of the Southern United States where they are established. They are potential threats to other sections of the country.

States with areas regulated under the Federal soybean cyst nematode quarantine include Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

States with areas regulated under the Federal white-fringed beetle quarantine include Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Only portions of the States designated as soybean cyst nematode or white-fringed beetle infested areas are subject to quarantine restriction. Packing used in shipments to be moved from infested areas to noninfested areas must either be hay or straw which is free of any of these pests or a substitute, nonregulated material.

Shipments of potentially infested crops, straw, hay, and other regulated items are subject to inspections. Any shipments found to be moving illegally are liable to return to point of origin or to treatment in transit--usually more costly than treatment at point of origin--at the owner's expense.

Farmers and truckers can find out if the particular areas from which they are moving regulated material are infested by contacting the local plant pest control office or county agent.

NEW OFFICERS FOR ROTARY CLUB

RUBLE GRIFFIN NEW ROTARY PRESIDENT

A Conservative View

by James J. Kilpatrick

Mrs. Patricia Reilly Hitt turned up here last week to deliver one of those blash speeches that are part of the ritual of American convention-going. She was talking to the American Home Economics Association. She said nothing at all of particular note, yet the speech set a few trains of thought in motion all the same.

Mrs. Hitt is Assistant Secretary for Community and Field Services in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. She is a lady of charm, grace and intelligence, and I have nothing against her except that she says things are "meaningful." You have to watch these meaningful types.

She was talking mainly about "consumer ignorance," and what can be done to enlighten the housewife. Her talk came in the same week that a House subcommittee was hearing testimony on the need for further regulations under the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act of 1966. Taking one thing with another, an observer felt the same sinking feeling known to the grimy little boy whose mother approaches with soap, scrub brush and nail file. The do-gooders are on the march again, and we are about to have good done to us.

clothes and fabric that will wash and wear well, to buy furniture of solid wood instead of veneer, to know and be able to measure the value of the contents of a pillow--these things are fantastically complicated.

This is the same pitch that is being served to the House subcommittee. One witness told a pitiful tale of cheese. She held up a package that contained eight slices of cheese, weighing eight ounces, priced at 39 cents. Then she held up another package of the same cheese containing 16 slices, weighing 12 ounces, and costing 59 cents. She was baffled. She was desperate. It was beyond her. She seemed about to burst into tears. How much was the cheese per ounce?

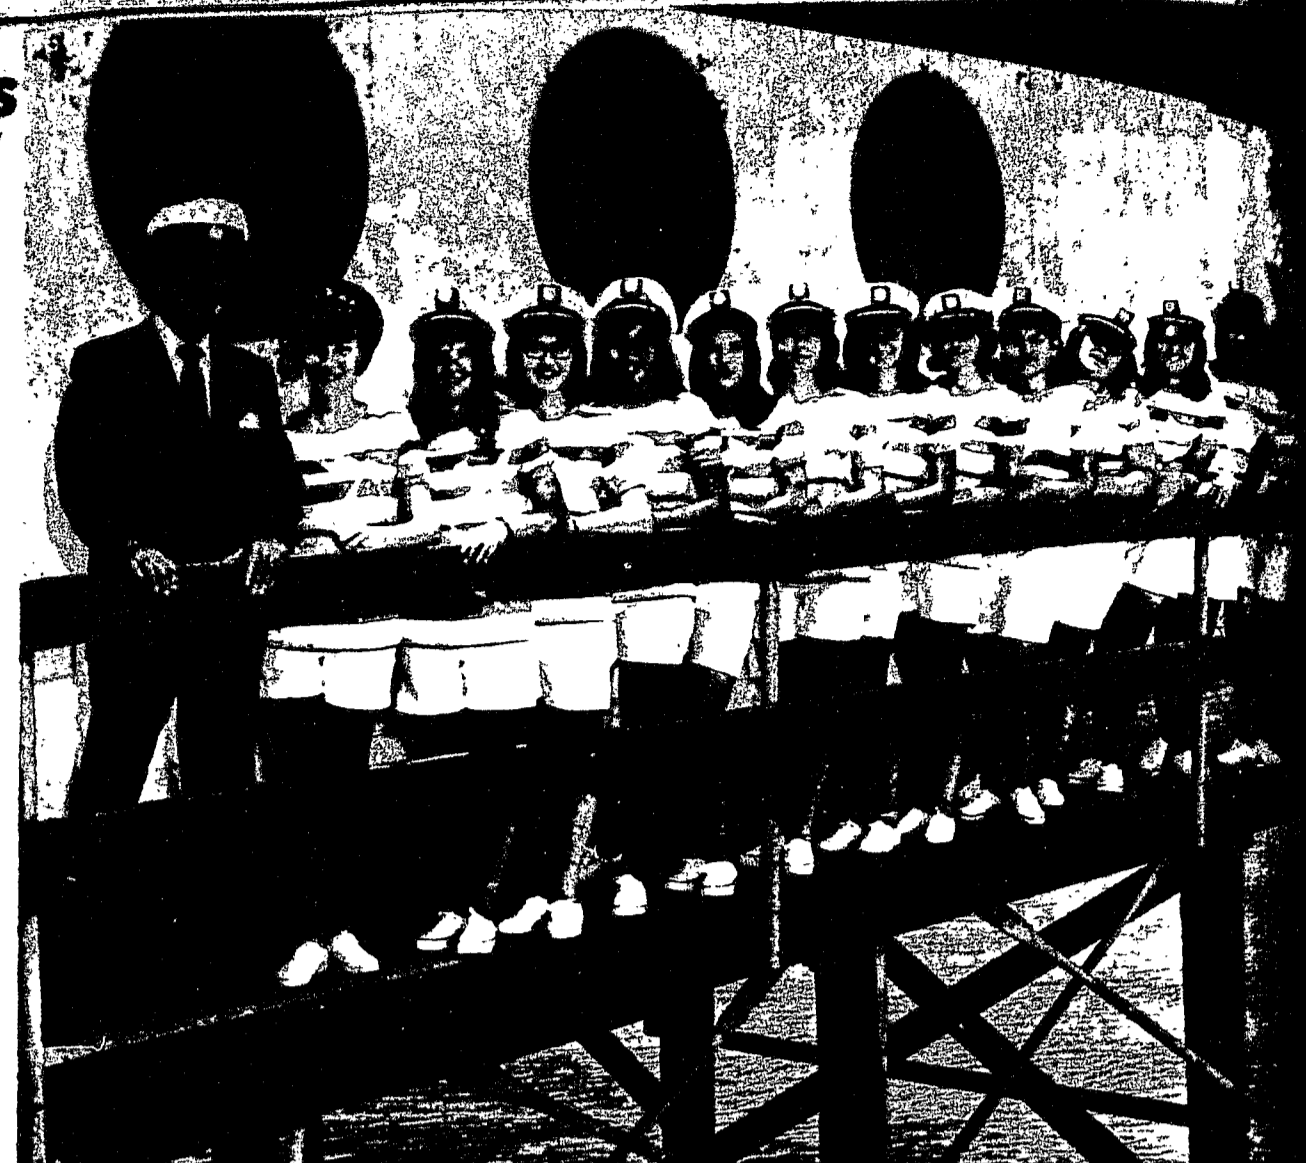

One felt an urge to spring from the press tables and cry, "For goodness' sake, lady, divide an ounce, a nickel an ounce!" What is so "fantastically complicated" about the everyday decisions that so bedevil Mrs. Hitt? Seriously, now, doesn't the Congress have issues before it of greater magnitude than the price of cheese or the fat in a hot dog? The United States is the greatest nation on earth, and the House and Senate comprise the most potent parliament of our times. It truly is a function of the President, through the amiable Mrs. Hitt, to be running around the country fluffing up pillows? The object of all this solicitude, as Mrs. Hitt said, is to see what needs to be done "to improve the way people live."

and who can do what to make it happen." The goal is to see that people know how "to use their resources for effective living." Ideally, all consumers would engage in "sound spending practices."

Well, humbug. Underlying these moans, groans and trivial dithyrambs are a couple of bogus assumptions. The first is that consumers generally, and housewives particularly, are a bunch of ignorant dolls; they cannot add, subtract, or divide; they are incapable of learning by experience that one can of corn is souper than another; they are so gullible they cannot perceive that a box of cereal is needlessly too large for the contents therein. And the second assumption is that Mama Hitt, the Congress, the Home Economics, and the Federal Trade Commission are competent to make mankind shape up.

Honest to goodness, I hope we are living under an extraordinary dispensation for independence of the gift to the TV commercial: "Mother, do it myself!" The function of government is not to mollify the consumer. All that properly can be asked of the state is that it protect us from dangerous products, from outright fraud, and from deliberate deception. At that point, the pull and haul of a free society ought to be allowed free play.

Saturn V Stage Damaged At MTF

Saturn V first stage was damaged during captive firing Thursday at the NASA Mississippi Test Facility. The damage to the stage, according to the probable cause, are being ascertained by a special investigative team convened by Boeing Company, prime contractor to the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center for the first stage. Marshall representatives are also on the scene supporting the Boeing investigation.

The stage involved is the eleventh in the series -- 8-1C-11. (It is not the vehicle for the Apollo 11 mission).

Project Mgr. Gives Report

F. Gonzalez, project manager for Hyde Construction in Bay St. Louis in giving a report of the firm's operations in Hancock County revealed that during their work on Highway 90, through the Bay-Land area that no traveling lane was injured during the construction of the 8.4 miles - highway.

The total work for the Hwy. project was done in three weeks, according to Gonzalez, all work began in April 1968, all intersections, cross-overs, and turnouts were completed on April 9, 1969. A total of 38 working days and a total of 995 calendar days were involved in the project.

The boost to the local economy is shown in the following: Monies paid out in pay-rolls - $827,000.00 - total consisting of the following: monies spent with local merchants - $200,000.00; locally bought concrete - $40,000.00; local services (trucking rentals) - $70,000.00; sand and gravel bought within the area - $210,000.00.

During the projects construction time approximately 50 local persons were employed by the firm and 25 additional persons came into the area to work on the job.

According to Gonzalez, approximately $1,225,000.00 was released in Hancock County. The construction work was done under the supervision of A. J. Green, project engineer, Miss. Highway Dept.

A routine acceptance test was being conducted by Boeing. The test started at 5:22 p.m. CDT and was to have lasted 125 seconds. At 96 seconds into the firing, the test was terminated automatically as a result of a temperature limit being exceeded in one of the F-1 engine fuel turbo pumps. The fire, resulting from fuel leakage, apparently started in the number 3 engine area. The extent of the damage in the engine compartment has not been fully determined. The fire burned for half an hour or more, early reports indicated, and was extinguished by the fire control system built into the test stand.

So far as is known, this accident will have no impact on the Apollo 11 mission, although investigators will be especially sensitive to that possibility as they attempt to assess the cause.

I-10 Construction...

tract on 2.3 miles of I-10 from the Pearl River Bridge to the intersection of Mississippi 607 is currently being fulfilled. Highway 607 is also being four-laned and paved, thus providing New Orleans and other visitors a four-lane route to and along Mississippi's Gulf Coast.

Other I-10 projects include one measuring nearly 12 miles from Highway 607 to the Jordan River, the Jordan River Bridge to the Wolf River; and the latest 11.7 mile stretch from the Wolf to the Biloxi River.

Counting the I-10 and 607 paving project, and the newest I-10 letting, more than $40 million has been used to fund Interstate 10 construction in Mississippi. A total of 18 interchanges will dot I-10 across the state when the multi-million dollar highway is completed.

The interchange at U.S. Highway 49 and Interstate 10 included in this week's letting will be one of the finest and most complete facilities of its kind, boasting loops and outer ramps at each quadrant of the full cloverleaf, and constructed with the heaviest of traffic loads in mind. A feature of the massive new landmark will be five dual sets of bridges.

Will Hold Convention

National Car Rental System, has chosen Biloxi as the site for its annual convention held November 2-6, 1969. Gerry Lane of Lamar-Lane Chevrolet along with Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and other coast chambers, helped the firm to plan their convention on the Mississippi Coast when he attended the franchisers convention last year in Las Vegas. Lane talked with Don Hesse, vice-president of the firm and told him of the advantages of the Coast. The firm chose Biloxi over several other convention sites -- Puerto Rico and the Bahama's.

Attending the convention last year were 780 people - with estimated money spent of $50,000.

The local office of National Car Rental System is at Ramada Inn, 90, Waveland. The office is managed by Lou Boudreaux, the largest single user of the facility is MTF.

Clapp Fired

Clapp's attorney, Larry L. Ladd, Gulfport, persistently objected to testimony surrounding the June 2 outbreak on the grounds that this is an assault charge, and therefore a misdemeanor for which testimony should not be allowed except in a court of law, and never in a hearing such as this.

In addition to Ladner and Clapp, James Shippey and Board Members Eric Larsen and Horace Davis also testified. Testimony of the board members and Shippey was largely confined, however, to the alleged assault incident under the determined questioning of Ladner's attorney, Randall Jones, Pass Christian.

Robert Clapp could not be reached at press time for comment on the verdict or a statement of his plans in the case. The law provides opportunity for an appeal before the State Board of Education, and further appeal in Chancery Court.

Sheriff Tells of Other County Duties

HANCOCK COUNTY REPORTS

On the 27th of May, 1968, Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. ordered the court clerk to enter a resolution into the record commending Sheriff Fred Curet and his staff at the Hancock County Courthouse for the extensive clean-up, fix-up and paint-up program, then just completed.

A motion was made by the Hancock County Bar Association, endorsed by its members, approved and endorsed by Attorney Boyce Holleman, and presented to the court by Association president Joseph H. Benvenuti.

The courthouse clean-up campaign was undertaken by the sheriff's chief law enforcement officer under another of his duties as courthouse custodian. The program was sanctioned and endorsed by the county board of supervisors who purchased the materials for use in the renovations.

Part from his policing duties, covered in the last column, as custodian tasks, the sheriff is also the county tax collector, jail chief and record librarian.

In addition to the general spruce up in the courthouse, the sheriff has opened a second jury room, for ladies serving on the jury, modernized the courtroom, installed new furniture in the room and jury rooms, and air conditioned the attorney's office room. All these improvements have been approved by the supervisors and paid for out of the county's general fund.

The sheriff has organized and coordinated the effort, under construction to the rear of the courthouse and jail is the new Hancock County Veterans Memorial Detention Center.

This building, to be put up by Gulfport Seabees, Curet is being built by public donation, the efforts of the American Legion, who took it on as a project, and the board of supervisors.

The sheriff says the detention home will be employed to women and juvenile offenders and have facilities for a room, social worker and chaplain.

He emphasizes the urgency here. Curet released statistics showing that seven juveniles were detained last week. Each had been transported to the Harrison County Family Center and back for trial.

His main jail the law man says he is holding prisoners on grand jury from the January session, as no criminal were tried at that time, as well as those for the July session. Without the detention center, if women or juveniles have been housed, cell space must be cleared causing bad overcrowding.

Prisoners are fed by the sheriff at the rate of $2 per day per prisoner allowed by state law and paid for from the general fund, and preparation is done in the jail.

General funds are being sought to effect renovations, as are for completion of the detention center.

As for the operation of the sheriff's multi-departmental come from commissions paid on all taxes, fees, licenses, like, collected by the county.

Each year Curet reports his payroll amounted to $42,000. . . the pay checks of all law enforcement officers on his payroll as well as tax collection personnel.

As for the tax collection system, Curet says he has recently the approval of the board of supervisors to put land roll collections on a computer basis.

As is due to the large number of sub-divisions in the county a vast number of lots contained therein.

They are writing nearly the same number of receipts as in Hancock County, and it is proving physically impossible to keep up with the work load with the present system," Curet said.

He said his office receives 15-20,000 letters a year seeking information, and that these, plus the cost of printing forms, filing answers, and compiling statistics have seriously added his office. This to the extent that in the busy season has to work a night shift for three months.

He pressures to increase his department's operating costs and the demands made by the grand jury, circuit court, and jury court.

The circuit court, which tries criminal cases, has increased from three weeks, from two, and for their operation the provides bailiffs, and and serve summons, writs, executions, and the like, as well as house the jury if such is required in serious and long cases.

The same personnel and services are provided for the chancery court, which tries and hears civil suits, and for the grand jury duties of his department include the necessity of providing 24-hour guard to hospitalized prisoners, at an estimated $55 per day, and a like service for persons committed to jail. To assist here the sheriff is working with hospital facilities to construct a security room at the hospital.

In cases of emergency, such as hurricanes and the like, the house is the center of county rescue and control activities. It is the place at which seized property is sold, and destroyed, and where all types of county business, and game, and boat licenses can be bought.

Finally, Curet says, the courtroom is available for public use and interested parties should contact his office.

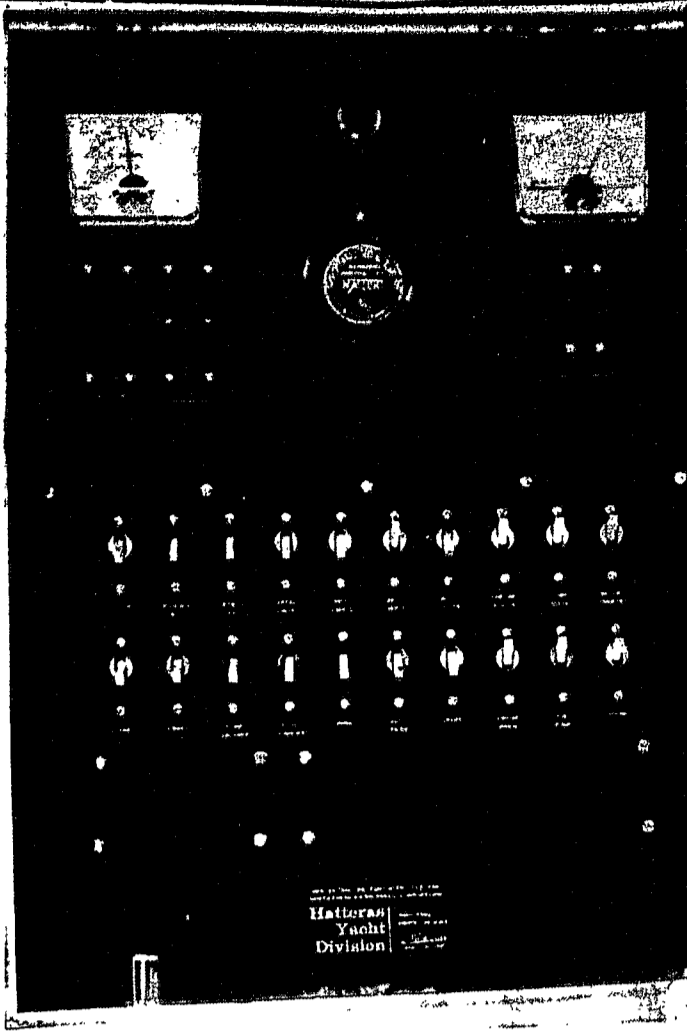

For more information and requests for information are and should be addressed to, Neville R. Jacob, public relations officer, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, P. O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, Miss., 39520.

a relative of his was a salesman for Lamar-Lane Chevrolet in Bay St. Louis because he had sold his father a new pickup truck awhile back that he has been very happy with. He visited Lamar-Lane Chevrolet and asked to see J.C., who in no time at all was able to recommend just the right new Chevrolet that he would be able to depend on for transportation back and forth to school where he will be a teacher in the county school system this fall. Mr. Breland recommends
J.C. Koenenn and Lamar-Lane Chevrolet to all of his friends

WHAT'S HOT

HAVING LIVED IN Mississippi for almost 20 years we've rejoiced over every progressive move made by our adopted state just as sincerely as if we'd been born here. When we finally left the "dark ages" of pre-1960 prohibition, raised teachers' salaries and just a little less than a year ago, watched the first women sworn in as Hancock County jurors, we thought that the stigma of being last in the nation in just about any field had finally been erased. Imagine our disappointment to note a news item stating that as of June 30, attorneys had been ordered to file brief in a suit challenging the Mississippi law against teaching evolution in schools in the Magnolia State.

THE CROWNING BLOW was to read that Arkansas, which we've always said adopted the slogan "The Opportunity State," because that's about all one can find in that area; voided a similar law upon order of the U.S. Supreme Court in November 1968, which leaves Mississippi as the lone spot in the United States in which students are prohibited legally to study the theories first advanced in the middle and late 1700's by Erasmus Darwin, an English physician, and French Comte Georges de Buffon. The controversial book The Origin of the Species by Natural Selection was written by Erasmus' grandson, Charles Darwin, and published in 1859, becoming the topic of newspaper headlines and making the name Clarence Darrow a household word in 1925. This was the year that the famed lawyer accepted the John Scopes case, the verdict allowing the controversial subject to be taught in Tennessee schools over 40 years ago.

WE ARE NOT attempting to get involved in the argument which for many years threatened to alienate theologians and scientists for all time. It's just that we were amazed to discover that our fair state was once again the "cow's tail" in this facet of education. In fact, the superintendent of Columbus city schools confessed that at least one biology book currently in use in the high school contained a reference to the topic, but the chapter was omitted as required by law. Now, we'll be wondering if the outcome of the case will automatically render all science books used by our offspring obsolete? Many of our readers just happen to subscribe to a Columbus paper, we'd very much appreciate a call informing us as to the decision of the judge—that is unless the case happens to be as touchy as the one for redistricting Hancock County, in which instance it may drag along for such an eternity that we'll be much too old to care what finally happens.

NOW BACK TO the local scene. As always those in charge of Our Lady of the Gulf's annual church fair must have a very special pull with the proper saints as mostly sunny skies attracted eager crowds on both Saturday and Sunday. There was plenty of good food, numerous temptingly stocked booths, and for once just about everyone envied the dripping victims who received cooling dunkings in the big tub each time a lucky chance taker tossed a ball at the proper spot. Once again it would be impossible to list names of those present, but some of the more faithful workers included: Denise and Mac McDowell, Arlene and Charlie Klefer, the A. C. Jones, the Gary Wilsons, Lou and John Wilkerson, Tony Morreale, Jim McCarthy, Clothilde and Henry Lang, Jon and Gus Aime, Vic Frankiewicz, Wayne Cornell and many others.

'TIS THE TIME of year when Ann and Nick Carabajal share their Waveland beach cottage with friends and relatives. Their first guests of the season were the Tortorichs, Betty and Pete, children Paula, Joe, Ruth and Mary and Betty's mother, Mrs. Esser, all from Chalmette. They enjoyed fishing even though only croakers were biting. Betty wound up as the champion angler, but Pete did quite well considering that this was his very first fishing experience. He enjoyed it so much he's hoping to return for another session in August.

ANN REPORTS that our fishing reporter, Doc Elliott, is very much on the ball as she and Nick seem to bump into him no matter where they happen to be wetting their lines. TITA (Mrs. Joe) Butto is once again enjoying the view from her lovely beachfront home after undergoing surgery recently in Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

ST. CLARE'S Day Camp is proving most entertaining for children between the ages of four and 11 who are attending, and a real boon to their mothers as they're kept busy from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. daily. Directors, Laura Miller, Barbara Rappold and Sister Ambrose, have a full schedule planning activities for their charges and even publish a paper. The Charlie Brown Weekly, which gives details such as winners of field day contests, swimming meets, etc. Today, Thursday, is officially awards day and a number of trophies are to be presented at this event. Your reporter plans to attend and will have a list of winners in all age groups for next week's column.

HERB STEFFEL, Merle and Bert's oldest son, has been selected by the Jaycees to represent Mississippi in the national Tom Sawyer fence painting contest July 4th through 6th. He and 49 other boys between the ages of 10 and 12 will fly to Quincy, Ill. and then to Hannibal, Mo., where they will display their skill with a brush and make like Mark Twain be- roes, touring the famous writer's home, legendary cave, museum and be treated to a ride on a real river boat.

ROSEANNE AND RICHARD Ford are driving around in one of the biggest, shiniest, gold luxury automobiles we've seen in many a day. LAMBERT BORDAGES is also sporting a brand new white vehicle.

IT IS WITH SINCERE regret that we mourn the passing of a most distinguished gentleman, and also a very dear friend, Mr. Winthrop Baker. He made an almost miraculous recovery from a very serious illness over three years ago and took much pleasure in daily outings with his ever devoted wife Lou until he was admitted to Veterans Hospital in Biloxi just three weeks before his death. His son Winthrop, Jr., wife Libby and three sons flew here from Boston to accompany Lou to his father's home town, Natchez, Miss., where he was buried with full military honors befitting his rank as a captain in the U.S. Army in World War I. The service was held in the chapel of the Presbyterian Church where he attended Sunday school as a boy and for many years sang in the choir. He was laid to rest in the same cemetery in which his grandfather, Capt. Thomas Baker, a famed officer of the Confederacy, was buried. His loss removes another from the ranks of those steeped in the true traditions of the old South.

LOU AND JOHN Wilkerson and children spent last week camping out at the MTF recreation area. KAY AND LEE Beard took off bright and early Saturday morning for their Florida vacation. MARIE QUINTINI is up and about again and looking so absolutely wonderful that it's hard to realize that she's recuperating from her third bout of surgery with-in the past year. ANNIVERSARY CONGRATULATIONS go to Eloise and Tommy Hayes who observed their 23rd on Thursday, June 26. SUSIE AND MIKE Lee became parents of their second daughter on Wednesday, June 25. The young lady weighed in at seven pounds, 13 ounces. Helen and Will Bordages are the proud maternal grandparents.

BONNIE AND LANEY Rinehart and daughter Bonnie Ann of Ft. Worth, Tex. are now visiting her parents Harriet and Bob Reichert. THE B.P. CAUSEYS are vacationing at their Pine Street summer home. MORE GET WELL wishes.

ANIMAL NOTES - Rose and Herb Dischary plan to introduce their two ponies, Susie and Midnight, which have been stabled separately in the Crescent City when they bring them over to their summer home next week. If all goes as anticipated, we may soon have news of expected additions to the Discharys' equine family.

COMPLAINT DEPT. - This isn't really a gripe, but more of a request which will speed up delivery of mail to boxes on the carrier's route. The postman is not allowed to leave his vehicle and walk to mail boxes which are blocked by parked cars, so it would save lots of time and trouble if everyone will remember this when parking their automobiles near boxes during the hours when mail is due to arrive.

SIGHTS AND SOUNDS ALONG THE WAY - The fresh green appearance of lawns all over town following a couple of much needed showers; a group of shiny skinned teenagers parading beachward carrying the usual necessities; suntan lotion, beach towels, canned soft drinks and indispensable transistor radios; a slightly harried young mother attempting to watch her brood of stair-step sized tots as they frolic in the shallow surf; and the sound of her voice as she sternly calls the name of each who dares to wander in water above his or her chubby limbs.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY - Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thigpen of Nicholson Community will celebrate their Golden Anniversary Sunday, July 6 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The Thigpens were former residents of Hancock County forced to move from the Test Site. Everyone is invited to the celebration at their home.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

Was quite a surprise to wake Sunday morning and find it raining after having no rain for sometime. It cooled things off a little and helped the vegetable gardens which were burning up well as lawns. Fishing seems are not effected by the showers and fish bit better for a rain.

Fresh water fishing was not hot over the weekend with fishing ideas in the afternoons. Water fishing has been done with speckles, flounders, sheepshead and especially sheepshead being caught most everywhere.

Sheepshead (convict) a dozen more dark stripes running from top to bottom distinguishes it as the Gulf Convict, are good food fish when properly prepared and are best when baked or broiled. They run as high as 30 pounds, but are best when too large. Sheepshead are being caught along the Railroad bridge and around offshore piers and pilings.

Shrimp are coming into their own. They are plentiful now and being caught by trawl, cast and small seines. Shrimp are a wonderful eating seafood when boiled, fried and made in salads. Soft shell shrimp can be fried and eaten shell and all.

Soft shell crabs and flounders are being caught nightly. Coleman lantern and spears all that is needed to catch them.

Hard crabs are being caught in mad most anywhere. They are also caught in fresh water during May through August. An Anglin crab net even a line tied with meat, chicken necks fish heads will catch 'em. Dredged or made into Gumbo is said to beat a seafood delicacy.

Flo and T. Pingos spent a week's vacation at the Bay crabbing and fishing. What a time they had.

Tony Protti, Jr., and family are spending a month's vacation at their summer home Cedar Point. Tony enjoys fishing and crabbing. There will be plenty seafood dinners with ends, to be sure.

Enjoyed trawling for shrimp with Jack Hershburger and son and Gene Leuder the other night. It's amazing what can be caught in a trawl. Shrimp, hard crabs, soft crabs and a few others. Plenty of all were caught. Jack has a swell boat and knows what he is doing. He and his son are ardent fly fishermen.

John and Louis Maurvin with the Migahty do quite a bit of fishing and soft crabbing. They were over from New Orleans and put in plenty time doing both. There is no better sport, they claimed.

Jimmie Baines, an ex-golf pro, enjoys playing in tournaments. He has played on many courses, and when not playing golf, plays the saxophone. Was a pleasure meeting him.

Also met D. L. Lackey another musician. D. L. plays the banjo and fiddle. He plays at night clubs on U. S. 90 near the Rigolets. His specialty is Hill Billy music. On off time he likes to fish. Who doesn't?

Yours Truly will be in Baton Rouge for the weekend. Expects to fish and play golf. Will spend the time with Luke, his son and family.

Heard about the girl who had a figure that drew many whistles as noontime in a factory town.

Dick Mestayer and son, Al-len caught some green trout up Pearl River way Saturday. Al-len is a beginner with a fly rod. Doing pretty good, too.

Was good to see Boule Blanchard hitting the old golf ball. He is one of our old time golfers and plays a good game.

July 4th is at hand again. A big weekend with plenty traveling and all kinds of sports. Be careful, it pays off in the end.

Our Lady of the Gulf Church Fair was held over the weekend. This occasion has been a tradition for years where old friends meet, fun galore for both young and old. As usual it was a real success.

Henry Lang says he hasn't been doing too good at soft crabbing lately. Maybe you don't stay long enough Buddy. They are giving in the wee hours now.

Al Kingston, barber and operator of Kingston's Sport Shop, is back at work after an operation. Al we understand is doing O.K.

The Rodeo at Lazy Y Arena will be held on Friday and Saturday, July 4th and 5th at 8 p.m. All kinds of competition in calf roping, riding, etc. It's located on Nicholson Ave. off Highway 90. Attend for an evening's enjoyment.

Henry Myers is an expert with a cast net. His favorite is catching shrimp. He gets some big ones for sure.

About time Herbert Cardin goes after shrimp. He gets them by trawling.

John Genin is working out at the Test Site. His favorite past time we think is soft crabbing with a little golf thrown in.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK
ALTON MOREL comes from a fishing family. He fishes, soft crabs and what have you. Alton does not brag, but gets his share of fish and game.

What's more fun than a crab-bowl or fish fry? It's fun and an easy way to entertain guests.

TOLL TRAFFIC INCREASE

A monthly report of the Mississippi Highway Department showed traffic across U.S. Highway 90 toll bridge at Bay St. Louis totaled 389,115 vehicles in May, an increase from the previous month and an even higher increase from last year.

In April 1968 the bridge was used by 139,743 and by 308,070 vehicles in May 1968.

Ask those who enjoy it.

No one should starve on the Gulf Coast with fish, crabs, soft crabs, flounders easy to get. They are there. Why not go out and catch them?

Grey Thomas son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Thomas is returning from Thailand where he has been serving with the Air Force as a sergeant. Grey loves to fly fish, catch mullets or most any old thing. Ready for that trip, Sarge.

The Hoffman family spent Sunday with their grandparents. Didn't have time to do any fishing or crabbing on this trip.

Larry Larroum is always gonna go fishing. Better take a little time off and go, while you're able, partner.

Your House of Worship Needs Both

It's your privilege

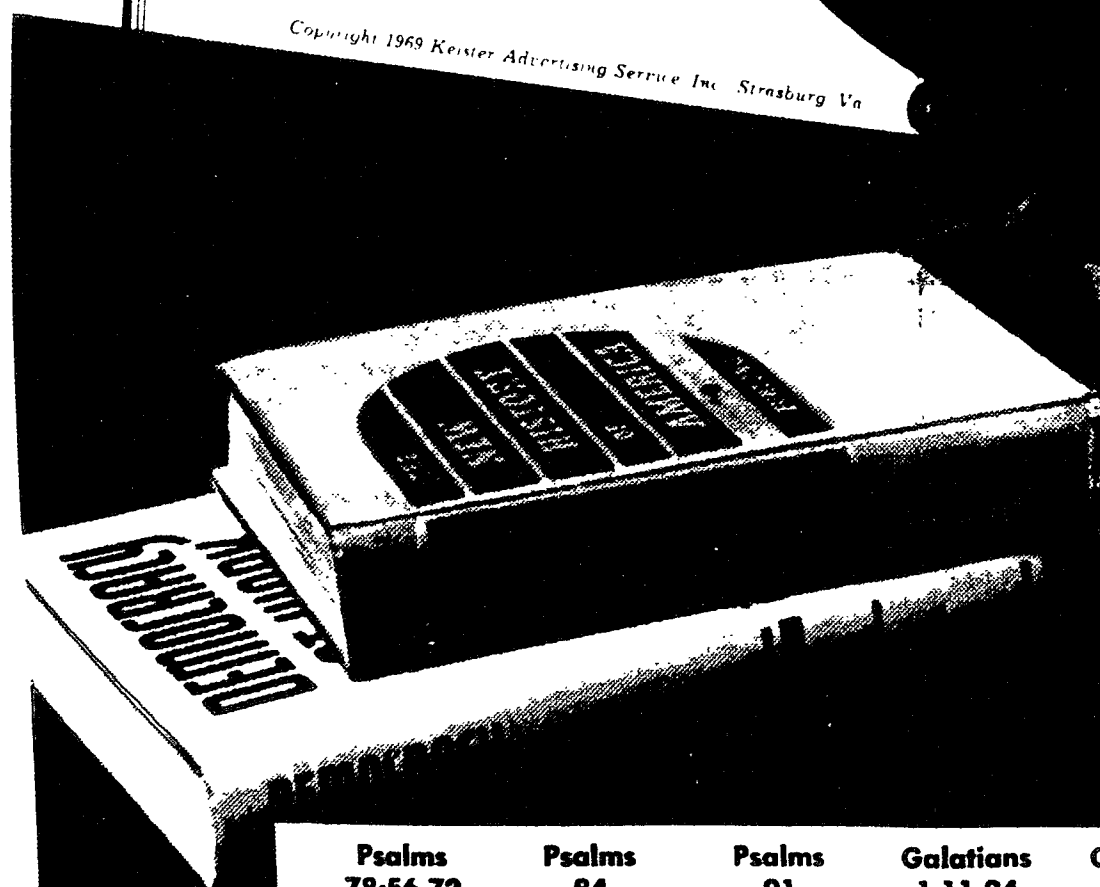

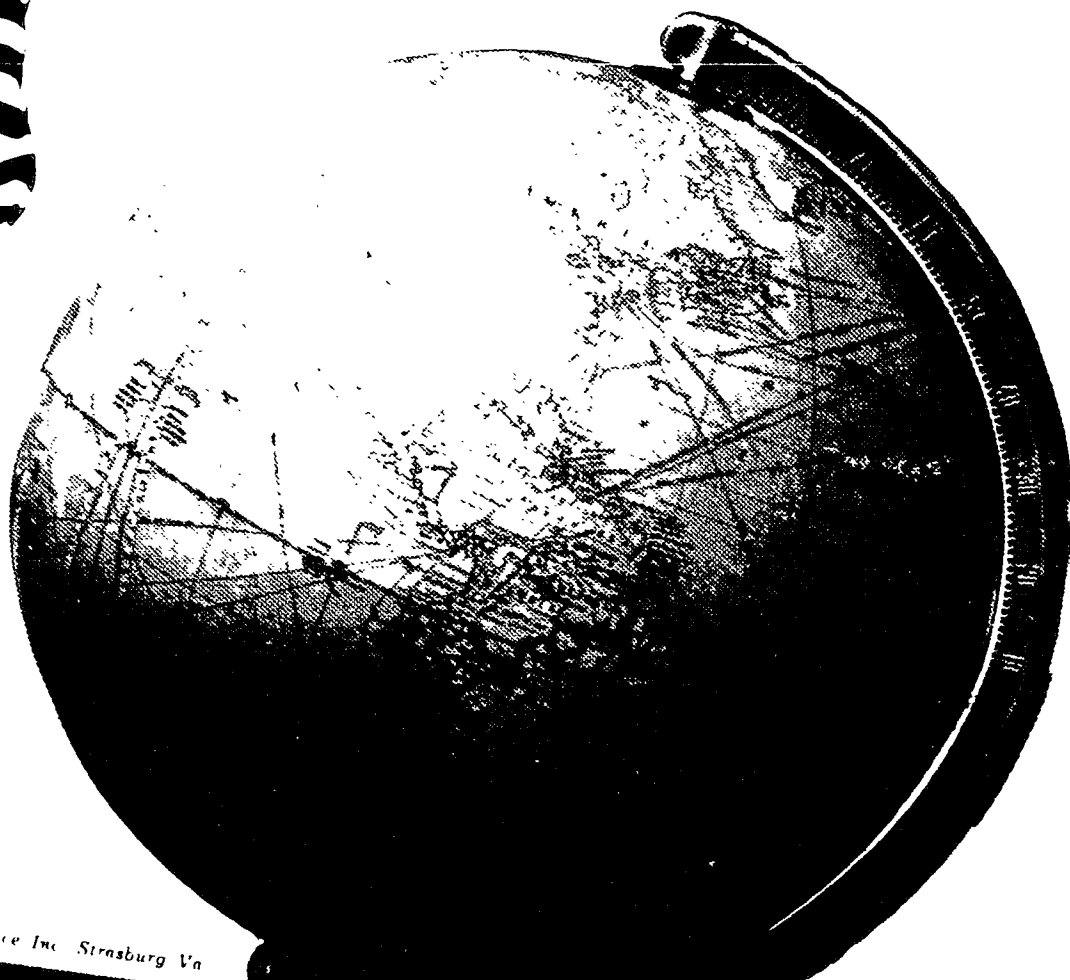

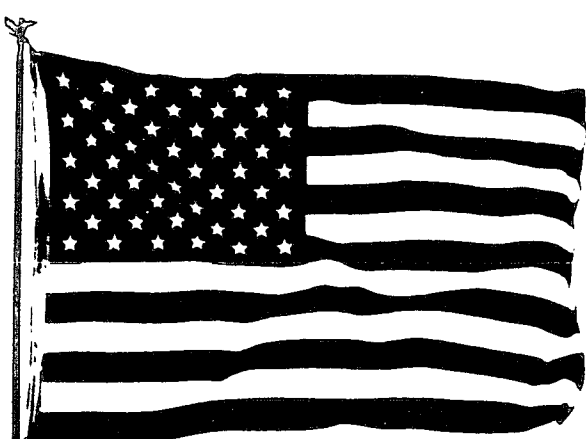

Here in America no one tells you that you have to work. Of course, when you do, you and your family enjoy self-respect as well as material benefits.

No one tells you, either, when or how you must play. But, when you take time for occasional recreation, you become refreshed, alert and ready for more work.

And no one tells you that you must worship the Lord, your God, regularly. But, when you do, you and your family are immeasurably blessed.

His mercy and loving-kindness will embrace your life. Knowledge of His infinite goodness and confidence in His eternal vigilance and love will sustain you at all times.

These blessings, and more, are yours so long as you keep alive the glorious American privileges of freedom to work, play and worship as you choose.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLEY F. RHODES II

Miss Margaret Jeffery Is Bride Of Mr. Rhodes

Miss Margaret Almeida Jeffery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Jeffery of 210 Neacase Avenue, Bay St. Louis, and Charley Earl Rhodes II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes Sr., of 135 St. Charles Street, Bay St. Louis, exchanged nuptial vows at 3 p.m., Sunday, June 15, in Main Street United Methodist Church.
